

MEDIA RELEASE: EMBARGOED 1st NOVEMBER 2023

Doltone House to host 2,000 people to take a stand against asbestos: Aiming to raise $1 million at one of Sydney's largest black tie fundraising galas

To mark the start of Asbestos Awareness Month, close to 2,000 people will gather tonight aiming to raise $1 million for asbestos safety and awareness initiatives. The Biaggio Signorelli Foundation's '15-Year Tribute Gala Dinner' will bring together Sydney's business, Government, medical research and not-for-profit communities, with a determination to end mesothelioma.

The Biaggio Signorelli Foundation was established after the Founder of Doltone House Group, Mr Biaggio Signorelli, passed away from mesothelioma (asbestos cancer) 15 years ago.

Paul Signorelli, Chairman of the Biaggio Signorelli Foundation and son of the late Biaggio, said the Foundation is overwhelmed by the support of the community.

"Our family witnessed first-hand what a truly devastating disease mesothelioma is and since my father's passing, we have honoured his dying wish to help save others," said Paul.

"Tonight is an extremely important occasion for both the Foundation and my family. It gives us the opportunity to reflect on the Foundation's work for the past 15 years – funding asbestos safety initiatives and medical research – and allows us to continue to work towards zero asbestos-related deaths."

Funds raised from the gala dinner will help support the formation of the Commonwealth Mesothelioma Research Network, where countries can unite to share research, treatment options, support programs and allow for better outcomes for people with asbestos-related diseases.

The nearly 2,000-person event, themed 'A Night of Pure Imagination', will be attended by some of Australia's dignitaries and special guests, including:
